Five new volunteer consultants join Executive Service Corps of Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, OH, July 2, 2013 – James F. McDonough, P.E., Ph.D., Lorna S. Parson, SPHR, Brian Robson, Ray Sinclair, Ph.D, and Anne Watson have joined Executive Service Corps of Cincinnati (ESCC) as volunteer consultants. ESCC is a nonprofit organization that provides full management consulting services to other nonprofit organizations in the Greater Cincinnati/Northern Kentucky area.

Jim McDonough is a retired life-long educator who still teaches a math course once a year at UC Clermont. Educated as a civil engineer with an MBA in finance, Jim spent most of his career at the University of Cincinnati with increasingly more levels of responsibility, culminating in his position as Dean of the Clermont College. Jim also served as a Loaned Executive to the United Way of Greater Cincinnati Eastern Area. Jim has served on nonprofit boards his entire career. The most recent boards on which he served include Clermont Senior Services, United Way of Greater Cincinnati, Clermont 20/20 and Clermont Chamber of Commerce. Jim earned his Ph.D. in Civil Engineering and his MBA in Finance from the University of Cincinnati. He earned his Master's and Bachelor's degrees in Civil Engineering from Northeastern University, Boston.

Lorna Parson brings nearly 20 years HR experience to ESCC. She is also an avid volunteer and engaged in many civic ventures. Lorna is currently an HR Specialist with the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit, a position she has held for four years. She has served as an Advisory Board member for Scarlet Oaks Veterinary Association and also as a board member for the City of Sharonville Planning Commission. She has been a volunteer for many local nonprofits. Lorna earned her M.S. degree in HR Management and Organizational Development from the Krannert Graduate School of Management, Purdue University, and her B.A. degree in Psychology (magna cum laude) from the University of Toledo. She also earned a Senior Professional in Human Resources Certification (SPHR.)

Brian Robson retired from P&G in June 2012 as Finance Director after spending 39 years with the corporation. He moved through increasingly responsible management positions at P&G in manufacturing and then finance and has lived and traveled throughout the world. Brian earned a B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering (Honors) from the University of Wisconsin Madison.

Ray Sinclair is currently Public Health Advisor for the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH.) As part of the CDC, NIOSH is the main US federal agency responsible for conducting research into occupational safety and health matters. Presently in his 39th year with the agency, Ray is the Coordinator of the Small Business Assistance and Outreach Program. He has held this position since 2009. Earlier in his career at NIOSH, Ray served in roles as a Program Analyst, a Health Communications Specialist, and a Television Production Specialist. From 1995 to 1997, Ray was also an adjunct professor at Thomas More College. He taught communications in both the MBA and undergraduate programs. Ray is a past board president for the Cincinnati Cable Access Corporation and First Unitarian Church of Cincinnati. He also was a board member for the Coalition of Neighborhoods. Ray earned a Ph.D. in Mass Communications from the University of Minnesota. He earned a M.A. in Speech from Bowling Green State University and a B.A. in English Literature from the University of Cincinnati.

Anne Watson is currently Global Human Resources Associate Director for P&G, a position she has held for 18 months and for which she and her family relocated to Cincinnati. During her 23 years with P&G, Anne has lived in Canada, the U.S. and Europe and held various leadership positions in Product Supply and Human Resources. Once a speed skater in her native Canada, Anne went on to be head coach for Team Canada at the 1997 Special Olympics World Winter Games. She also served for 12 years as a volunteer in various leadership and coaching positions at Special Olympics Canada. Anne earned a B.A. degree in Economics/Political Science/Business from the University of Manitoba and once served in the Canadian House of Commons.
